PREFACE.

It has been shown by experience that elementary Latin books, to accomplish their purpose, must present the fundamental principles of the language and its system of inflections in the simplest and clearest form. They must also provide abundant means for the application of these principles and for practice in the use of inflected forms. With these characteristics there must be combined a natural and attractive development, so that difficulties may be readily overcome by reason of the very method in which they are approached.

It is believed that the present work in its revised and enlarged form possesses these qualifications in an unusually large degree. The design has been to give only essential grammatical information, with the largest opportunity for practice. Attention is called to the selections for translation, inserted even in the early pages of the work. These narratives arouse the interest of the pupil, and neutralize whatever is detrimental in the fragmentary presentation of the language in the short sentences.

The American editor is responsible for the following: The Introduction; the additional pages upon the Subjunctive Mood; the revision of paradigms in the main portion of the book and the paradigms of the verbs in the supplement; the indications of long vowels; a few changes in orthography, such as transilio for transsilio, conicio for conjicio, quotiens for quoties.

Few students when entering college are found to possess the ability to pronounce and read Latin with correctness or fluency. The suggestion is therefore made and emphasized that at the very beginning the pupil be required to read the Latin before any translation is given, and that reviews be conducted entirely in Latin. The great object to be aimed at is that the pupil should think in the Latin. The full pronunciation of the Roman method, with careful observance of quantity, will be found to be a most valuable addition to elementary work.

SHORTER LATIN COURSE.

INTRODUCTION.

PRONUNCIATION.

1. Alphabet. — The Latin alphabet is the same as the English, save that it lacks w.

NOTE. — k is found only in a few words, e.g. Kalendae, and as an abbreviation, e.g. K. for Kaeso, a Roman surname. y and z are found only in words of foreign origin. The characters j and v did not originally belong to the Latin alphabet, but are additions of the mediæval period. They were used then to distinguish i the vowel from i the consonant, i.e. j; and u the vowel from u the consonant, i.e. v (pronounced as labial v, nearly our w).

2. Letters. — Letters are either vowels or consonants. The vowels are a, e, i, o, u, y. The remaining letters of the alphabet are consonants.

3. Vowels. — Vowels may be long (indicated thus —), or short (indicated thus ∪), or common (indicated thus ∽).

NOTE.—The long and short vowels differ only in the length of time required in their pronunciation. This is termed the Quantity of the vowel. The long vowel requires twice the time in pronunciation that a short vowel does. (In this book all long vowels are marked. The short vowels are indicated only at times to save ambiguity.)

4. Consonants.—Consonants may be classified as follows:—

Mutes,	$\left\{ \begin{array}{l} p, b, f \\ t, d \\ k, c, g, q(u) \end{array} \right.$
Liquids,	l, m, n, r
Sibilant,	s
Double consonants,	x and z .

5. Sounds of the Letters.—There are two methods of pronouncing Latin among English-speaking people.

They are: 1. The Roman Method.

2. The English Method.

The Roman or phonetic method is generally accepted by modern scholars as the one presenting in a fairly exact manner the pronunciation of the educated Romans of the Augustan Age. It simplifies pronunciation, since it has but one sound for each letter, and it aids in the study of Latin versification and comparative philology.

NOTE.—It must be remembered that the difference between the long and short vowels is a matter of time required in pronunciation. The English words chosen represent only approximately this difference.

a. Roman Method.

Vowels : ā is sounded like the last a in mammā.

ǣ	"	"	"	a	in comma.
ē	"	"	"	a	" fray.
ě	"	"	"	e	" fret.
ī	"	"	"	i	" machine.
ĩ	"	"	"	i	" thin.
ō	"	"	"	o	" hole.
ō	"	"	"	o	" rod.
ū	"	"	"	oo	" pool, not like u in cute.
ũ	"	"	"	u	" pull, " " u " but.

Diphthongs : ae is like aye.

au	"	"	ow	in cow.
ei	"	"	ei	" feint.
eu	"	"	u	" cute.
oe	"	"	oi	" oil.
ui	"	"	wee	" tweed.

Consonants : b is sounded like English b, save that before s and t it is like English p. urbs = urps (not herbs), optineo = optineo. So scribō has perf. scripsi and supine scriptum.

c is sounded like English k, or c in cat.

g is sounded like English g in give.

j (i consonant), is like y in young.

q, always followed by u, is like English qu.

v (u consonant), is like w in woe.

t is like English t, never like sh.

s is like s in sill, not like z. It is always a sharp hiss.

ch is like k.

b. The English Method. The letters are sounded as in English.

Vowels: ā as in mate.	ă as in hat.
ē as ee " feet.	ĕ " " get.
ī as " wine.	ĭ " " fin.
ō " " note.	ŏ " " hot.
ū " " tube.	ŭ " " cub.

Diphthongs: ae and oe like e.

au like au in aught.

eu " ew " pewter.

Consonants: c is like s, and g like j, before e, i, y, ae, oe, eu.

Otherwise they are hard, as c in come,
and g in get.

ch is always hard.

t before i has sound of sh.

6. Syllables. — A word has as many syllables as it has vowels and diphthongs.

A single consonant between two vowels belongs in pronunciation with the latter.

When two words are component parts of a compound, these parts must be indicated in pronunciation; as, ab-sum.

NOTE. — The last syllable is called the ultima; the next to the last, penult; and the last but two, antepenult.

7. Quantity. — 1. A vowel is short when it stands before another vowel or h, also before nd and nt; nihil, via, laudant, laudandus.

2. The following are long: —

a. Diphthongs and vowels taking the place of diphthongs; accūsō (causa), exclūdō (claudō).

b. Vowels formed as a result of contraction; mō-mentum (movimentum).

c. Vowels before nf and ns and j (the i consonant) — īnfēnsus pronounced eenfanesus; before gn, gm — as māgnus, āgmen; sometimes before nc and nq — sānctus, quīnque.

3. Syllables which have long vowels are long; syllables which have vowels followed by two consonants (except a mute with l or r), or a double consonant (x or z), are long.

Remember the vowel, if short in itself, does not change its pronunciation, though the syllable is considered long.

A syllable in which a short vowel is followed by a mute with l or r is common; i.e. it may be long or short.

8. Accent. — Words of two syllables are accented on the first.

Words of more than two syllables are accented on the penult when that is long, otherwise on the antepenult.

Enclitics. — Some small words, such as que = and, ne, the sign of a question, are joined to other words. The accent then falls upon the syllable immediately preceding the enclitic.

SECTION 2.

THE ACCUSATIVE CASE.

We say in English “I strike him,” not “I strike he,” and “He strikes me,” not “He strikes I”; for in these sentences the persons who strike are put in the nominative, and the persons whom they strike in the accusative. But very few words in English as it is spoken and written nowadays,¹ have an accusative case different from the nominative. We say, for instance, "The stone struck me" and "I struck the stone," and the word "stone" is not altered as "me" is to "I." In Latin, on the other hand, most words have an accusative case different from the nominative, and great care must be taken to use the accusative when the noun in English follows the verb. In such a sentence, therefore, as "He strikes the table," the table would be "mēnsam."

¹ The ablative case may be translated by from, by, with, in, or at. It is very often found with prepositions.

Obs. In putting the Latin sentences into English an a or a the will have often to be added, whichever of the two seems the more suitable.

For the words see the Dictionaries at the end.

SECTION 5.

SECOND DECLENSION: NOUNS IN -us.

The greater number of masculine nouns of the second declension end in the nominative singular in -us, and are declined like:—

SINGULAR.

Nom.	}	Domin us , ě	a master. and Voc.
Gen.	Domin ī	of a master or a master's.
Dat.	Domin ō	to (or) for a master.

Dat.		Domin īs	to (or) for masters.
Acc.		Domin ōs	masters.
Abl.		Domin īs	with, from, etc., masters.¹

The Latin for "O Master!" or "Master!" is Domine. Domine is called the Vocative Case. In all other nouns but those in -us of this declension the Vocative is the same as the Nominative Case.

¹ As dominus refers to a person, a preposition is used with the ablative case to express these relations, hence, with the master is cum dominō, and from or by the master is ā dominō.

Obs. In putting the Latin sentences into English a his, her, or their will have sometimes to be added. It follows that, in turning the English sentences into Latin, these words (for the present put in italics) should be passed over.

[8.] 1. Dominus servum laudat. 2. Servī dominum amant. 3. Dominī amīcōs laudant. 4. Mārcus servōs videt. 5. Dominus rēgīnam saepe videt. 6. Dominī servōs saepe laudant. 7. Mārcus Jūliam amat. 8. SECTION 6.

The neuter nouns of the second declension end in -um; and, like all neuter nouns, they have the nominative and accusative cases, both in the singular and plural, alike:—

The lord gives rewards to his slaves to-day.

SECOND DECLENSION — (Continued) : ADJECTIVES IN
-us -a -um, SINGULAR.

These adjectives are thus declined in the singular : —

SECTION 10.

Est — Sunt.

Est, is; sunt, are.

The Latin for "Julia is queen" is Jūlia est rēgīna (not rēgīnam). The rule that the accusative is to be put after the verb does not apply to the verb "to be."

It is not right to say in English, "It is me," and "It is him," but "It is I," and "It is he." So in Latin, est Jūlia (not Jūliam) will stand for "It is Julia."

Be careful, too, to notice that the adjective has to agree with its noun none the less because est or sunt comes between them. So the Latin for "the rose is beautiful" is rosa est pulchra.

[22.] 1. Puer est miser. 2. Epistula est longa. 3. Puellae sunt pulchrae. 4. Arma pulchra sunt. 5. Vir bonus nōn est miser. 6. Librī amīcō meō grātī sunt. 7. Mēnsa magistrī plēna librōrum est. 8. SECTION 12.

THIRD DECLENSION — (Continued).

The Gender shown by meaning.

The meaning of some words shows their gender: mercātor, a merchant, is masculine; mulier, a woman, is feminine. "A good merchant," and "a good woman," will therefore be declined thus:—

	SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
Nom. } and Voc. }	Bon us , ě , mercātor	bon ī mercātōr ēs .
Gen.	Bon ī mercātōr is	bon ōrum mercātōr um .
Dat.	Bon ō mercātōr ī	bon īs mercātōr ibus .
Acc.	Bon um mercātōr em	bon ōs mercātōr ēs .
Abl.	Bon ō mercātōr e	bon īs mercātōr ibus .

	SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
Nom. } and Voc. }	Bon a mulier	bon ae mulier ēs .

Dat.	Bon ae mulier ī	bon īs mulier ibus .
Acc.	Bon am mulier em	bon ās mulier ēs .
Abl.	Bon ā mulier e	bon īs mulier ibus .

“By,” before a word denoting a person, must be translated by the preposition ā (ab always before a vowel, and often before consonants), followed by the ablative: otherwise the ablative by itself is enough. So:—

Rēgina ā bonō mercātōre laudātur.

The queen is praised by the good merchant.

Rēgina clāmōribus puerōrum terrētur.

The queen is frightened by the shouts of the boys.

[28.] 1. Alexander sorōrī tuae rosam nunquam dat. 2. Multī ōrātōrēs¹ rēginam semper laudant. 3. Puer librōs clārōrum ōrātōrum hodiē laudat. 4. (Mercātor Germānus rēginae vīnum dat.) 5. SECTION 13.

THIRD DECLENSION — (Continued): THE STEM.

The nouns of the third declension which have been given so far have been declined by adding the case-endings to the nominative singular. But in order to decline the greater number of nouns of this declension it is necessary to know another case as well. Rēx, a king, for instance, is thus declined: —

	SINGULAR.	PLURAL.

And others again, which have more syllables in the genitive than in the nominative singular, make their genitive plural in -ium. Among these are:—

Altus, high ;	altior, higher .
Grātus, welcome ;	grātior, more welcome .
Brevis, short ;	brevior, shorter .

Altior, grātior, brevior are called the comparatives of altus, grātus, brevis, which are termed their positives.

brevis	—	gen. brevis	—	comp. brevior

There are three degrees of comparison, — Positive, Comparative, Superlative.

The comparative is thus declined: —

Multa enim vectīgālia postulat ā Germānīs, quī neque aurum neque argentum possident; lēgibus etiam Rōmānōrum pārēre, et linguā Latīnā in jūdiciīs dīcere jubet. Arminius, autem, dux Germānōrum, cīvēs ā tantā tamque superbā Rōmānōrum dominātiōne līberāre cōstituit. Vārus igitur per silvam dēnsissimam iter facit. XV. An Account of the Battle of Bannockburn.

Rēx noster, piger homō et corporis voluptātibus dēditus, tandem, crēbrīs nostrōrum clādibus commōtus, exercitum comparat, et in finēs hostium iter facit. Rēx hostium, simul atque adventum nostrōrum intellegit, locum dēligit suis opportūnum, nostrīs inīquissimum. Suōs enim in humō siccā firmāque collocat; frontem tamen tergumque āgminis continentēs palūdēs cingunt. Sinistrā flūmen erat, dextrā castellum, colle praecipitī impositum. Et, quod nostrī equitibus praestant, crēbrās in palūde foveās facit. Solum enim effōdit, et īnsuper locum longuriīs crātibusque sternit: tum humum grāmenque incit. Cālōnēs omnēs servōsque equitum post vicīnum collem collocat. Tum adventum nostrōrum exspectat.

XVI. Bannockburn — (Continued).

Nostrī tandem sub vesperum adveniunt. Noctem nōn quiētī somnōque sed carminibus epulisque dant. Contrā hostēs silentiō opem divīnam precibus implōrant. Posterō diē dux hostium suōs tālibus verbīs ad pūgnam incitat. “Militēs! certāmen nōbīs hodiē prō liberīs et uxōribus, prō parentibus et patriā, est. Deus nōbīs aut victōriam aut mortem glōriōsam dat. Sī cui vīta glōriā cārīor est, domum ex pūgnā excēdat!” Tum pūgna committitur. Primō peditēs sagittāriī nostrī in aciem indūcuntur; sed equitēs hostium, incitātīs equīs, irrunt; et summā audāciā nostrōs gladiīs hastisque cōnfodiunt: nihil enim sagittāriī praeter arcūs habent. Deinde equitēs nostrī submittuntur; sed plērique, in-sidiārum ignārī, in foveās prōnī incidunt. Nostrīs conturbātis, subitō cālōnēs servīque equitum in summō colle appārent. Nostrī autem, “Ēn, novus exercitus adest!” clāmantēs, terga vertunt, et fugā salūtem petunt.

Erat autem puer quīdam, cūjus frātrēs mājorēs nātū in rēgiīs castrīs erant. Hunc pater pānem, cāseum, vīnum ad frātrēs in castra portāre jubet. Vēnit igitur ille puer hostemque videt, et verba ējus contunēliōsa audit. “Quid!” dīcit mīlitibus quī adstābant, “nēmō cum hōc homine cōnfligere audet?” “Nēmō,” respondent mīlitēs. SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD.

SECTION 64.

SEQUENCE OF TENSES.

Learn the Subjunctive Mood of sum, as found on pages 144 and 145, remembering that the meanings vary with the use, and are not fixed as in the Indicative Mood.

The uses of the Subjunctive Mood are both dependent and independent; but as its name (subjoined) indicates, it is used mainly in dependent sentences. In this dependent use the tense is determined by the tense of the verb of the principal sentence.

Consider carefully the following sentences:—

Audiō ubi sit, I hear where he is.

Audiō ubi fuerit, I hear where he has been.

Audiam ubi sit, I shall hear where he is.

Audiam ubi fuerit, I shall hear where he has been or was.

Audīvī ubi sit, I have heard where he is.

Audīvī ubi fuerit, I have heard where he has been or was.

Audīverō ubi sit, I shall have heard where he is.

Audīverō ubi fuerit, I shall have heard where he has been or was.

Audiēbam ubi esset, I heard where he was.

Audiēbam ubi fuisset, I heard where he had been.

Audīvī ubi esset, I heard where he was.

Audīvī ubi fuisset, I heard where he had been.

Audīveram ubi esset, I had heard where he was.

Audīveram ubi fuisset, I had heard where he had been.

Observe that the principal verbs in the first four groups are followed by the present or perfect subjunctive, while those of the last three are followed by the imperfect or pluperfect subjunctive.

The tenses of the first four groups are:—1. present; 2. future; 3. perfect definite (perfect translated have or has); 4. future perfect.

These are termed primary or principal tenses. They are followed by primary tenses (present and perfect) of the subjunctive mood.

The tenses of the last three groups are:—1. imperfect; 2. perfect indefinite (perfect when translated without have or has); 3. pluperfect.

These are termed secondary or historical tenses, and are followed by the historical tenses (imperfect and pluperfect) of the subjunctive mood.

RULE: Primary tenses in the subjunctive mood follow primary tenses in the indicative mood, and secondary follow secondary.

Notice also that the dependent sentences whose verbs are subjunctive are really questions with interrogative words, but are not put as questions. These are termed Indirect Questions.

Direct Question: Ubi est? Where is he?

Indirect Question: Audiō ubi sit, I hear where he is.

Direct Question: Quis est? Who is it?

Indirect Question: Audiō quis sit, I hear who it is.

RULE: Indirect questions have their verbs in the subjunctive mood.

Interrogative words:—

quis, who? cūr, why? num, whether?

ubi, where? quot, how many?

[149.] Sciō quid sit. Audīvī quot militēs fuerint.
Audīvī quot equitēs essent. Scit ubi fuerint. Nesciō cūr homō claudus sit. Imperātor audīverat cūr homō claudus esset. Germānus audīvit ubi servī fuissent. Pater audiet ubi filiī fuerint. Quidam homō interrogāvit quae nāvēs longissimae essent. Quae cīvitatēs in armīs sunt? Quaeram quae cīvitatēs in armīs sint. Caesar quaesīvit quot mīlitēs in exercitū essent.

[150.] Have you heard how many ships were on the sea? He knows where you are. I will hear where the enemy are, and will soon overcome them. They asked why we had been so sad. Will you tell me why you are so different from your father? (91, sentence 4.) Where will you be to-morrow? My friends will ask where you will be to-morrow. Have your friends often been in Athens? I asked whether his friends had often been in Rome. The general assembled his soldiers, and asked how many had been at home and how many in the camp. I had already heard where he was; where he had been.

FINAL CLAUSES.

Learn the subjunctive, active and passive, of amō (pages 147 and 151), and form the subjunctive of the following verbs:—

optō, desire ;	portō, carry ;	cōservō, preserve ;
impetrō, obtain ;	labōrō, strive ;	postulō, demand .

Consider : —

Hominēs arma capiunt ut sē cōnservent.

Men take up arms that they may save themselves.

or in order that they may save themselves.

or for the purpose of saving themselves.

Notice that ut sē cōnservent expresses the purpose of arma capiunt, and may be rendered in the various ways given.

RULE : Ut with the subjunctive mood may express purpose.

[151.] Caesar postulāvit ut mīlitēs arma portārent. Mīlitēs semper labōrāvērunt ut sīgna cōservārent. Imperātor optat ut nāvēs haec onera portent. Incitat mē ut in opere dīligentissimus sim. Tē herī laudāvī ut tē ad mājōrem dīligentiam incitārem. Sē armābunt ut pūgnent. Mīlitēs adventum hostium exspectābant ut cum dīligentiā pūgnārent. Puer ut ā parentibus amētur dīligentissimē labōrat.

[152.] Caesar was placing the seventh legion on the left wing in order that the soldiers might fight most bravely. The teacher gives books to his boys that they may obtain wisdom. Embassadors had come from the town to obtain peace. I beseech you to love your brothers and sisters, in order that you may be loved by them. He exhorts them to put the enemy to flight. I exhort you to read these orations studiously. They advised him to build five war-ships, that he might overcome the enemy.

SECTION 66.

SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD — (Continued).

FINAL CLAUSES (NEGATIVE).

Learn the subjunctive, active and passive, of moneō (pages 154 and 158), and form the subjunctive of the following verbs: — habeō, have ;	dēbeō, owe ;	pāreō, obey ;

placeō, please ;	taceō, be silent .

Examine carefully: —

Monuit mē nē arma contrā patriam caperem.

He advised me not to take up arms against my country.

RULE: Negative purpose may be expressed by nē with the subjunctive mood.

NOTE.—The conjunction nē means “in order that not,” “not to,” “that not,” “lest.”

[153.] Rōmānī castra circumdābant nē hostēs effugium habērent. Māgnus exercitus missus est nē agrī nostrī vastārentur. Epistolam ad tē scribam nē culper. Equī postulantur nē militēs gravissima onera portent. Rēx pācem cum Rōmānīs fēcit nē oppidum oppūgnārent.

[154.] The general will fight so that his country may be saved. We warned the king not to demand much money. I shall station the cavalry on the left wing, so that the enemy may not hold the hill. They demanded that we should not obey the king. I shall take care that the industrious boys are not blamed.

SECTION 67.

SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD — (Continued).

CONSECUTIVE CLAUSES.

Learn the subjunctive of regō, active and passive voices (pages 162 and 166), and form the subjunctive of the following verbs: — dicō, say; dūcō, lead; vehō, carry; vīvō, live.

Examine carefully: —

1. Accidit ut Rōmae essem. It happened that I was in Rome.
2. Equitēs tam ācriter pūgnāvērunt ut hostēs superārent. The cavalry fought so bravely that they conquered the enemy.
3. Marius adeō inops fuit ut nōn cibum habēret. Marius was so poor that he did not have food.

These sentences show a use of ut different from that found in purpose sentences, for here it is used with the subjunctive mood to express result.

RULE: Ut in affirmative and ut nōn in negative clauses may be used with the subjunctive mood to express result.

NOTES. — a. These clauses of result often follow such expressions as: accidit, “it happens”; reliquum est, “it remains”; necesse est, “it is necessary.”

b. After verbs or expressions of hindering, when made negative, quīn takes the place of ut, particularly after the phrase nōn dubitō, “I do not doubt.”

Tantus hostium timor fuit ut nōn Rōmānōs exspectārent. Nōn dubitō quīn adfuerint. Nēmō dubitābat quīn nāvēs aedificāret. Necesse est ut cōsulī Mārcellō pāreāmus. Accidit ut Mārcellus cum exercitū Athēnīs sit. Accidit ut nōn domī essem. Nōn dubitō quīn nostrī milītēs equitēs hostium superāverint. Caesaris exercitus tam ācriter dīmicāvit, ut nēmō supereset.

[156.] The enemy were so cowardly that Caesar's troops easily defeated them. Nothing prevents you from going to Athens. I do not doubt that the enemy will fight bravely. I am so poor that I have no money. Caesar led his forces before the camp so quietly that the enemy did not perceive them. The number of the enemy is so great that we may not conquer. The army is so brave that our enemies will not conquer. It happens that I have no book.

SECTION 68.

SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD (Continued).

INDEPENDENT SENTENCES.

The preceding exercises on the subjunctive mood illustrated its use in dependent sentences.

The following show its use in independent sentences.

Learn the subjunctive, active and passive, of audiō (pages 169 and 173), and form the subjunctive of the following verbs: — mūniō, fortify; sciō, know; finiō, finish; lēniō, soothe.

Examine these sentences: —

1. Dent tibi dī multa bona, May the gods give you many good things.

2. Utinam falsus vātēs sim! O may I be a false prophet!
3. Utinam Scipiō vīveret! Would that Scipio were alive!
4. Utinam pater meus vēnisset! O that my father had come!

In these sentences notice:—1. The subjunctive mood expresses a wish. 2. When the wish is possible, i.e. can be realized, the present tense is found (sentences 1 and 2). 3. When the wish is represented as not realized at the present time, the imperfect tense is found. 4. When the wish is represented as not realized in past time, the pluperfect tense is found.

RULE: The subjunctive mood is used independently to express a wish, the present tense denotes the wish possible, the imperfect denotes the wish as not now realized, the pluperfect, as not realized in past time.

NOTE.—Utinam often precedes the subjunctive of wish.

[157.] Cīvēs valeant. Utinam cīvēs meī beātī essent! Illud utinam nē scriberem! Nē vīvam sī tibi concēdō! Utinam minus vītæ cupidī fuissēmus! Ōrātor videat in prīmīs quibus dē rēbus loquātur. Utinam Caesar omnēs cōpiās prō castrīs instruat! Utinam magister discipulōs dīligentissimōs laudāvisset!

[158.] May the slaves be warned by their owner. O that my brother had lived and were now putting the enemy to flight! May the city preserve its liberty. O that you had heard the words of your teacher! O that you were well and happy! May the shouts of the enemy frighten neither the generals nor the soldiers. Would that my father were alive! May I live in the city where I have many friends.

SECTION 69.

SUBJUNCTIVE (HORTATORY) AND IMPERATIVE.

Another use of the subjunctive in independent sentences is that expressing commands or exhortations.

Consider the following:—

Audiam, let me hear.

Audiāmus, let us hear.

Audī, hear (audiās, with indef. subject).

Audīte, hear ye.

Audiat, let him hear.

Audiant, let them hear.

From these sentences observe that commands and exhortations are expressed by the subjunctive and imperative moods.

In the first person where there is no imperative form and in the third person, there being no imperative form save in the future tense, the subjunctive supplies the place of the imperative.

The negative of the hortatory subjunctive is nē, not nōn.

[159.] Nē difficilia optēmus. Plūrimum in amīcitiā amīcōrum bonōrum valeat auctōritās. Quidquid agēs prūdentē agās. Magister discipulōs moneat. Amēmus patriam et hostēs ejus vincāmus. Videant cōsulēs nē quid¹ rēs pūblica dētrīmentī capiat. Nē Caesar lēgātōs ad castra hostium mittant. Quam ob rem discēde atque hunc timōrem ēripe. Līberā rem pūblicam metū, in exsilium discēde. Cōservēmus, jūdicēs, hominem quem amīcōrum dignitāte comprobārī vidēmus.

[160.] Let the boys carry the heavy burdens. Orators, do not praise yourselves nor your orations. Let us go to Caesar and inform him of (de) these matters. Boys, love your parents. Let the pupils listen to the words of their teacher. Let them make a bridge in order that the elephants may cross the river.

MISCELLANEOUS SENTENCES.

[161.] Nēmō dubitat quīn haec rēs brevī tempore ā tē cōficiātur. Fieri potest ut rēctē homō sentiat et id quod sentit polītē ēloquī nōn possit. Restat ut doceam omnia quae sint in mundō hominum causā facta esse. Audīte, quaesō, jūdicēs. Hostēs tam fortiter pūgnāvērunt ut prīmīs cadentibus proximī ex eōrum corporibus tēla mitterent. Moveor hīs rēbus omnibus sed in eam partem ut salvī omnēs sint.

A BOOK FOR BEGINNERS IN LATIN,

With Exercises of Gradually Increasing Difficulty, and Easy Passages for Translation.

AMERICAN EDITION

Revised, and Adapted to American Schools, by JAMES C. EGBERT, Ph.D., Instructor of Latin in Columbia College.

18mo. 40 cents.

The Saturday Review says: "The book is a good one. The exercises are plentiful, and the words which they contain are such as will be useful to learners when they pass on to higher work."

The Literary World says: "The young learner who cannot 'get on with' his Latin under so simple and gently-progressive a course as Mr. Cook has here laid down, had better be allowed to give it up altogether. The teacher's work has been greatly simplified and lessened by the omission of any advanced rules or complex examples. . . . The book seems to us admirably suited for girls' schools as well as for boys', and it is marvellously well printed and got up for the price charged."

The Glasgow Herald says: "This manual is admirably adapted to the Latin requirements of the Scotch Code for the first year. All the ground is covered, and the exercises for translation from and into Latin are numerous and judiciously arranged. The plan of the book is one by which the pupil is made to take stock of his knowledge at every step, and security is thus got for the foundation in Latin grammar being soundly laid. The book is likely to become a favorite. . . . The book is admirably simple and practical."

CAESAR.—The Helvetian War.

BY

W. WELCH, M.A., and C. G. DUFFIELD, M.A.

REVISED FOR AMERICAN SCHOOLS BY

Prof. S. G. ASHMORE, L.H.D.,

Selections from Book I. of "The Gallic War," arranged for the Use of Beginners. With Notes,
Vocabulary, and Exercises.

18mo. 40 cents.

Educational News: "By far the most remarkable novelty in this book is the manner in which the text is arranged in the first twenty-nine chapters. Teachers, as a rule, find a difficulty in initiating pupils into the reading of Caesar, which is, in almost all cases, the first Latin author read after the accidence has been mastered. This difficulty has, we venture to say, been obviated in this book by each sentence having a separate line."

CAESAR.—The Invasion of Britain.

Selections from Books IV. and V. of "The Gallic War."
Adapted for the Use of Beginners. With Notes,
Vocabulary, and Exercises.

18mo. 40 cents.

BY

WELCH, M.A., and C. G. DUFFIELD, M.A.

REVISED, WITH REFERENCES TO AMERICAN GRAMMARS, BY

Prof. S. G. ASHMORE, L.H.D.

The School Board Chronicle says: "Caesar's Invasion is a very useful combination of a reading book and an exercise book for beginners. It is furnished with an excellent map of Britain as known to the Romans, and with two vocabularies, — English and Latin, and Latin and English. At the beginning of each chapter is wisely given a summary of the sense; this will be found a great help to beginners. The notes are admirable, — short, to the point, and very practical."

The Saturday Review says: "The notes, which deal chiefly with simple points of syntax, are short and generally sufficient."

MACMILLAN & CO.,

A COMPANION TO SCHOOL CLASSICS.

By JAMES GOW, M.A., Litt.D.,

Head Master of the High School, Nottingham. Late Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge.

Second Edition, Revised. With Illustrations

12mo. $1.75.

"By 'school classics' I mean classics with commentaries for use in schools, and by describing the book as a 'companion' to these, I mean that it attempts to give the information which a commentator is, from the nature of his task, compelled to assume even in a young student. My aim is to place before a young student a nucleus of well-ordered knowledge, to which he is to add intelligent notes and illustrations from his daily reading." — From the Preface.

"Mr. Gow has presented a vast amount of information in a small compass; yet it is so well arranged, and so clearly stated, that, notwithstanding its condensation, it is read with ease and pleasure. Indeed, we do not know where to look for so good an account of Athenian and Roman public affairs in a form at once clear, concise, and full enough for ordinary students as Mr. Gow has here given us." — Science.

"He has made use of the most recent authorities, and the young student will find the pith of many books in the space of less than 400 pages. . . . Much of the information would be sought to no purpose in the ordinary manuals, and what is given is conveyed in its true connection." — Nation.

"Excellently planned and admirably executed. The author—for Mr. Gow is more than a compiler—has had a distinct object in view. He is a distinguished student of the classics, and he is an eminent practical teacher. With such qualifications, we turn with confidence to a reliable book." — Educational Times.
